

Directions to Wolfson Institute of Preventive Medicine

Emerging from Barbican tube station turn left on Aldersgate Street and take the first left into Carthusian Street. Turn right into Charterhouse Square (just past the Sutton Arms on the right) and walk through the square and into Rutland Place where the wrought iron gates to the Medical College will face you. The gates are open during normal hours (8-5). Walk straight ahead along the edge of the green; the Wolfson Institute is a new two-storey red/brown brick building between two older taller buildings. Approach without crossing the lawn and go round the building to the double doors of the main entrance. For security reasons there is an entryphone with instructions about how to gain entry.
